EDITORIAL

It took many hours of hard work, almost unbelievable frustration, a tremendous rush, and a touch of panic, but, as usual Winter Carnival seemed to arrive on time looking better than ever before. And it has been going on like this for the past 47 years.

At first, this year's theme looked as if it would hinder the imagination of the statue builders. This impression remained for only a short time though, as the ingenuity of the men and women of Tech quickly produced bountiful numbers of statues with a great range of ideas. The meaning of Iceterical History is to recreate an event as it would have happened if the time, place or circumstances had been slightly changed. Examples of this can be found almost anywhere around the campus.

It is hard to imagine the staggering task which Blue Key undertakes each year to produce a successful Winter Carnival. Their job involves months of planning and hard work in preparation of this one weekend. There are many other groups and organizations that also help to bring Winter Carnival to Michigan Tech, and they should be thanked. These are the University Administration, Faculty, and Staff members, for their cooperation and understanding during the preparation for Winter Carnival; the area residents, for their tolerance of the inconveniences caused during preparation for Winter Carnival; and the various groups and organizations, for their participation in the Winter Carnival events.

A special thanks should be extended to all those who attended the concert, hockey games, special events, and skits. These are the people who truly make Winter Carnival all that it is.

For those of you who did attend Winter Carnival, we hope that this special issue of the Michigan Tech Lode will be able to help recall pleasant memories of a cold February weekend well worth remembering.

For those of you who did not attend Winter Carnival, I sincerely hope that this Pictorial will help to inspire you not to miss it next year.

Thanks . . .

I would like to take this opportunity to extend the thanks of the Pictorial Staff Staff to all those who greatly helped in making this year's Pictorial a reality.

Among those are Mr. Charles Eshbach for his help in photography and the many other aspects of the magazine, and Prof. P. R. Hinzmann for his assistance in bringing many of the photographs to print.

The Soo Line Railway Company should also be thanked for making possible the Tech Winter Carnival Flare Pageant through the donation of some four hundred flares.

Texas Carnival

An annual ritual of Michigan Tech's Winter Carnival has become the shipment of snowballs to Southwest Texas State College, the alma mater of former President Lyndon Johnson. This year, on Tuesday of Carnival week, five hundred snowballs were packed in dry ice and, with North Central Airlines footing the bill, were shipped off to the Lone Star State.

In past years the icy missiles were "manufactured" on the Tech campus. This year, however, Herman, the Snow Capitol of Michigan, served as the source for the snowballs. Leaving in the morning, they arrive in the afternoon where, under the hot sun, Bermudaed combatants pelt each other with the Copper Country's greatest resource and smallest export.

Blue Key

In 1929, after a run of seven years, Tech's Winter Carnival folded for lack of someone to organize it. Three years later, in 1932, a chapter of Blue Key honor fraternity was established here. In 1934 they revived Carnival and have run it ever since.

Begun at the University of Florida in 1924, Blue Key is an honor fraternity for upperclassmen. It stresses leadership and service on the campus and in the community, drawing its members mainly from the officers of other organizations at the school.

At Michigan Tech, Winter Carnival is the chapter's single largest project. Meetings begin back in October to plan all organized phases except the Friday concert. Contests, rules, judges, publicity, the Queen, and numberless other details all fall into the hands of Blue Key. If Winter Carnival has become the event of the year at Tech it is largely due to the organization and guidance of Blue Key.

The Phi Taus ask some new immigrants, "How long can you tread water?"

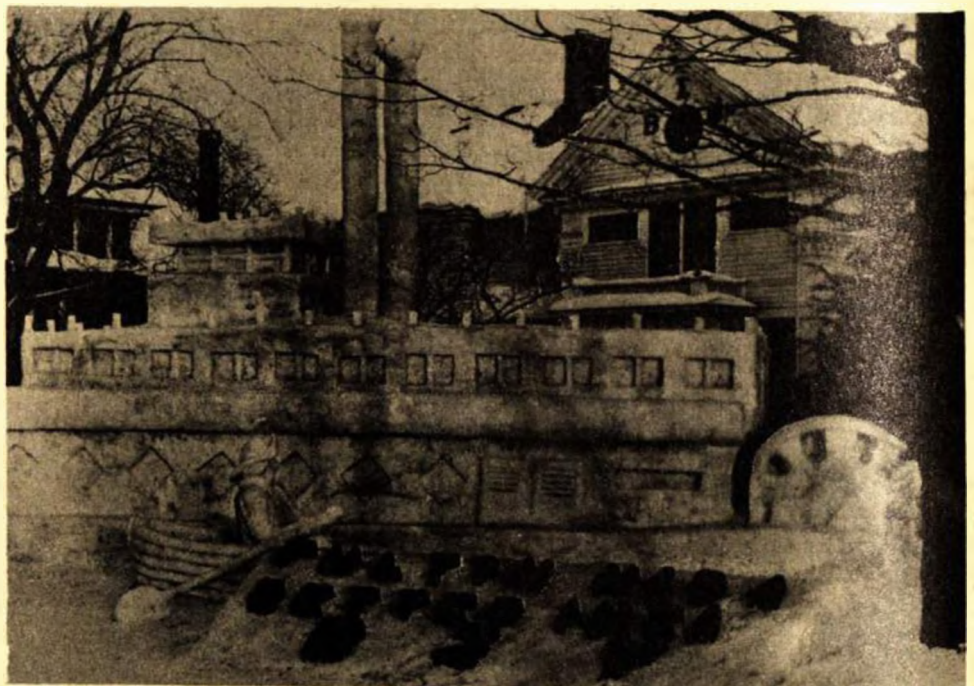

"Row, dammit, row!" cries Magellen as Phrozen Phifth and Sno House examine the perils of circumnavigation.

Another offshoot from the "Engineer's Song" is Co-ed's "He was the only one who noticed the horse."

The American Society of Civil Engineers asks, "How deep is the Quincy Mine?" Would you believe . . .

Fulton speeds across the lawn of Beta Sigma Psi, overtaking an unfortunate canoe.

"Give me liberty or give me death!" rings the bell with Patrick Henry in this entry by the Foresters.

"Jeep" does stand for "general purpose vehicle", but ROTC, this is ridiculous.

The Sig Rhos rebuild Sutter's Mill and decide, "Let's Keep It Secret."

Kappa Psi's twist on Bible history.

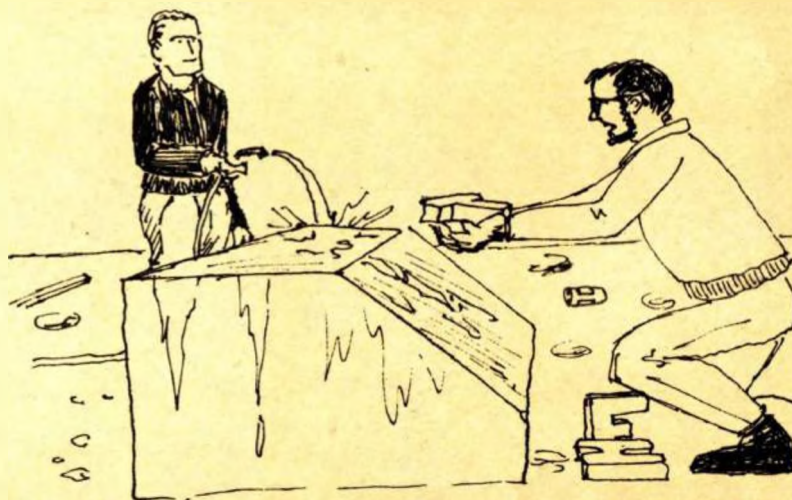

A potato chip commercial and Apollo 8 combine to inspire Theta Chi's "Bet You Can't Eat Just One."

Sigma Phi Epsilon's Indian tells US-41 traffic, "I'll have a Manhattan."

The Hugger. Camaro SS Coupe with Rally Sport equipment.

What the younger generation's coming to.

The 1969 Camaro is closing the generation gap. Fast.

Some parents are even asking to borrow their kids' Camaros.

And some kids are actually letting them.

Camaro's secret is its Corvette accent. Standard bucket seats. V8's up to 325 horsepower. And Camaro's the only American car besides Corvette that offers 4-wheel disc brakes.

Camaro's got a lot more going for it, too. Like this SS version that comes with a big V8, power disc brakes, beefed-up suspension, a special floor shift and wide oval tires. And with the Rally Sport package, you've got the only sportster at its price with out-of-sight headlights.

But don't think for a minute that we won't sell you a Camaro if you're over thirty.

After all, it's not how young you are.

It's how old you aren't.

Putting you first, keeps us first.
