A Raging Lake Creates Cover Scene

Unexpectedly, the winter of 1970-71 made it's debut when a violent blizzard struck the Keweenaw Peninsula on Sunday, November 22, 1970. On Lake Superior, high winds sent mountainous waves crashing against the rocky shore, creating a freezing spray which blanketed objects hundreds of feet inland. After the storm subsided Mr. Roger Little went out to the Lake Superior shoreline between Eagle River and Eagle Harbor to photograph some of the unusual shapes created by the freezing spray. Using a Mamiya C-3 120 at f8 and 1/60 second, Roger captured the enchanting scene shown on our cover.

Editor's Note

The editor and staff of the PICTORIAL extend a sincere thank you to the numerous people who made the production of this magazine possible. Among those who deserve special recognition are this year's queen candidates, whose patience in picture taking sessions seemed eternal, as well as Mr. Roger Little, whose advice and assistance in printing techniques proved invaluable.

Since this is our tenth anniversary edition, the editor takes this opportunity to express a very special thank you to Mr. Charles Eshbach, whose overall assistance has been synonymous with the production of most of the first ten PICTORIALS.

Blue Key Sends Snowballs to Texas

Besides its superb planning and handling of all Winter Carnival activities, the Michigan Tech chapter of Blue Key National Honor Fraternity annually sends 500 snowballs to Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos, Texas. There, the southern guys and gals have a helluva good time pelting each other with the Copper Country whitestuff.

The shipping of snowballs, originally the idea of Mr. Roy Moses, was initiated about ten years ago and immediately gained national publicity since Southwest Texas State is the alma-mater of former President of the United States, the late Lyndon B. Johnson. Today the shipping of snowballs has become a Tech tradition. Last year's Texas snowball fight was covered by no less than four television and radio stations.

Douglass Houghton Hall Enters Class A Competition

Despite opposition by members of various Tech fraternities, the residents of Douglass Houghton Hall moved up to class "A" competition this year. DHH, with over 300 residents, posed a considerable threat to the smaller fraternities who monopolize Class "A". Student Council, with a strong fraternity representation, stalled the efforts by DHH residents to gain "A" classification. In a close vote, Council President Mike Duda cast the deciding vote to break a 7-7 deadlock and DHH was reclassified "A".

Through their recent efforts in Homecoming, Douglass Houghton Hall residents have developed a spirit and sense of pride in their organization that is rare among members of a dorm. Their entry into Class "A" has improved the quality of Carnival competition and proved that Winter Carnival is not just another social fling for the Greeks, but a time when anyone at Tech can get involved and have a real good time.

Carnival Judges Saluted

Each year, Blue Key National Honor Fraternity invites leading industrial figures and their wives to act as snow statue judges for Winter Carnival. Making the trip to Houghton this year were: Mr. and Mrs. Duane C. Smith, Allan Bradley Co., Milwaukee, Wisconsin; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Doer, Westinghouse Corp., Pittsburg, Pennsylvania; Mr. and Mrs. James Barnard, Kelsey Hayes Corp., Detroit, Michigan.

Also serving as snow statue judges from the Tech community were: Dean Harold Meese, Dr. Clyde Work, Dr. Paul Hinzmann, Dr. Arthur Vicory, Dr. Robert Stones, Dr. Jack Holland, Dr. Dallas Holmes, Joe Galetto, Jack Mugford.

Other judges included:

Skit Eliminations: Mrs. Hope Whitten, Jack Porrit, Gordon Hare, Dr. R.C. Stinson.

Skits: Dr. Betzabe Allison, Joe Kirkish, Ted Kearly, James Kapp, Dr. John Allison, Dr. and Mrs. Myron Berry, Dr. Douglas Lowry, Dr. H.B. Anderson.

Queens: Dr. Burt K. Whitten, Dr. G.L. Scofield, Doug Rappley, Mrs. Adelle Meese, Dr. Das Kelley Barnett.

What makes a Winter Carnival so special? - The PICTORIAL presents the three most memorable events of the past ten years.

This photo, showing 9-month-old Stephanie Eshbach and her mother, Mrs. Charles V. Eshbach, admiring Theta Tau's 1969 "Da Gall of Dat Guy," appeared in newspapers worldwide.

These "cat paws," snowshoes about the size of a frisbee, enabled the Delt Sigs to run away with the 1969 snowshoe race.

Theta Tau's "Da Gall of Dat Guy" - First In Class A, First In Worldwide Publicity

Snow statue competition in 1969 witnessed Tech sculptors carving their masterpieces to comply with the theme "Ice-Terical History". The Theta Taus took first place in Class "A" with a statue entitled "De Gall of Dat Guy". It depicted the feelings many Americans held toward France at the time by showing the late French President Charles De Gaulle blithely towing away the Statue of Liberty.

Mr. Charles Eshbach, university photographer, posed his wife and first daughter in front of the statue and snapped the most famous picture ever taken on the Tech campus. The photo, accompanied by its caption, received nationwide publicity and appeared in newspapers throughout Europe.

Goofy Fell Down, Broke His Crown, But Theta Tau Put It Together Again

For their interpretation of the 1968 snow statue theme, "Walt Disney's Wonderful World of Ice", the Theta Taus designed a statue entitled "When You Wish Upon A Star". The plans called for a twenty-five foot high statue of Goofy outfitted with a graduation cap and a Tech diploma. Behind Goofy was a star upon which a replica of Jiminy Cricket was perched.

The early stages of statue construction went smoothly. The star was easily constructed and Goofy was erected to his full height. Then disaster struck. As snow was being removed from Goofy's base, the twenty-five foot structure became unstable and toppled. Not discouraged easily, the Theta Taus worked feverishly to salvage something respectable out of the mess. After removing the body of the fallen statue, Goofy's head was pieced together and placed upright in front of the star. After the base of the statue had been transformed into the shape of a "cloud", Goofy's diploma wielding right arm was added so that it too emerged from the cloud, and his graduation cap was added.

Surprisingly, the modified creation was completed on time and although it did not place in competition, the comeback inspired the Theta Taus to an overall victory in Class "A" that year.

Delt Sig Little Shoes Run Away In Snowshoe Races

For a countless number of years, Winter Carnival snowshoe competition has provided onlookers with hilarious sights of racers tripping and tumbling over their oversize snowshoes. At the 1969 races, however, Delta Sigma Phi racers switched to "cat paws"—a type of oval shoe about the size of a frisbee. Wearing the lighter footwear, the Delt Sigs literally ran away with the event. Other snowshoers argued the legality of the smaller, more maneuverable shoes, so Carnival rules were changed to their present day status, specifying that snowshoes used in Winter Carnival competition must be at least twenty-seven inches long.

Superb Defense by Warden

Huskies Defeat Wisconsin, 7-1

With an overflow crowd of 4,020 cheering them on, the Michigan Tech Huskies demolished first ranked Wisconsin Friday night by a score of 7-1.

Freshman goalie Jim Warden, in his finest night as a Husky, made thirty-six saves and was selected as the game's first star. Warden's bid for a shutout was spoiled early in the third period when Wisconsin's Bob Lundeen scored on a long screened shot.

Tech's scoring barage began at 8:45 of the first period when Jim Nahrgang, assisted by Pushie and Wise, scored his seventh goal of the season. Thirty-four seconds later, with the huge crowd still buzzing, Bill Steele turned the red light on again. Assists came from Pushie and Jaschuk. Wayne Pushie gained his third assist when Captain Darwin Mott scored the third Tech goal of the period at 12:25.

After Tech had opened the second period scoring on an unassisted goal by Graham Wise, Bob D'Alvise stole the puck and scored his 15th goal of the season to continue to lead the Huskies in goals scored. Just ten seconds later, Lorne Stamler, assisted by Jaschuk and Steele, hit the corner of the net and made the score 6-0.

After Warden's shutout bid was spoiled early in the third period, Lorne Stamler made the final tally when he slapped it to the goalie's left at 15:35.

What is it?

"1973 Winter Carnival—Frigid Fairy Tales"—words plastered all over MTU's campus this week. But how do you put the essence of Winter Carnival into words? Carnival is towering ice statues, exciting hockey games, a "grin and bear it" stage review. To one person it means many sleepless nights and a few hangovers from working on snow statues. To another it means spending endless hours in the Union waiting for Concert tickets, Queen Coronation tickets, and Stage Review tickets. It is going home to see your girl because it is a long weekend. It means spending four whole days bar hopping and partying because there are no classes. It is setting your year old daughter on Mother Goose's back and taking a picture of her to place in your album next to the ones of your wife taken three years ago, when she was still your girl coming up to visit for Carnival. It is trying to speed skate at the Dee on Thursday morning after only 2 hours of sleep because you spent all night finishing your snow statue. It's fun, frolic and fascination. It's Winter Carnival, 1973.

Beard Contest

The Beard Contest has two major categories: old beards and new beards. As the names imply, contestants in the new beard category must be clean shaven at registration time while those entering old beard competition already have beards at registration time. Following is a list of this year's winners:

OLD BEARDS: Randy Raymond, Full. Bob Perk, DHH, Goatee-Moustache. Paul Livingston, Vets, Sideburns. Warren Solom, Coed, Novelty.

NEW BEARDS: Bob Ziemnick, Vets, Full. Wendell Wyatt, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Sideburns. Rich Chvala, Phi Kappa Tau, Goatee-Moustache. Bob Perk, DHH, Novelty.

Sammy Statues Elicit Smiles, Frowns, Glances of Surprise

A political comment on Richard Nixon's cease fire treaty in Viet Nam, a parody on the movie "2001," a wishful thought that came true for DHH, and a Class Z statue—these are some of the many forms taken by the traditional one night statues this year. Whether built to deliver a message, to take out frustrations after a long tired night, or in the riotousness of drunken debauchery, these statues appear Thursday morning along side the official classed statues to be judged privately by everyone who frowns, grins or puzzles over them and perhaps to be given a Sammy award.

Sigma Rho Wins Snowshoe

With a fresh six inch snowfall covering Hubbell Field Friday morning, conditions for the snowshoe races were excellent. Sigma Rho took first place Class A in the team sprint relay and Phil Jose of Delta Sigma Phi was the individual winner in the cross-country event. Following are team results in the event:

CLASS A: 1st place—Sigma Rho, 2nd place—Theta Tau, 3rd place—Douglass Houghton Hall.

CLASS B: 1st place— St. Al's, 2nd place—Forestry Club, Tombstone.

CLASS C: 1st place—Army ROTC, 2nd place—Stagger Inn, 3rd place—Unquenchables.

Kappa Delta Psi Wins Broomball

Broomball, played on the ice at Dee Stadium with brooms and a volleyball, is played in accordance with the rules of hockey. Each team consists of five men and one goalie playing at one time with unlimited substitution permitted.

The use of gripping devices on the shoe or boot is not permitted.

Results of broomball competition:
CLASS A

1st place - Kappa Delta Psi

2nd place - Douglass Houghton Hall

CLASS B

1st place - ASCE

2nd place - Coed Hall

Twenty-eight teams in Giant Slalom

Nine teams from Class A, eight teams from Class B and eleven teams from Class C competed in Friday's Giant Slalom on Mont Ripley. Skiing conditions were slow with the snow thick and moist.

Each team consisted of three to five skiers, each one allowed just one run through the course. Winners were determined by totaling the three best individual times, the lowest total winning.

Grass Roots, Curley and Edmonds Featured At Carnival Concert

The "Grass Roots," a seasoned rock group from Los Angeles, were the headliners of this year's Winter Carnival Concert. Appearing with them were comedians Edmonds and Curly from Wisconsin.

The "Grass Roots" performed many of their past hit songs at both concerts, held in Sherman Gym. These included their first million-selling single, "Where Were You When I Needed You," as well as "Midnight Confessions," "Temptation Eyes," "Two Divided By Love," "Wait a Million Years," "Sooner Or Later," and "Move Along." The five members of the band—Warren Emtner, on guitar; Robb Grill, on bass; Reed Kailing, on guitar; Joel Larson, on drums and Virgil Webber, on organ—have been together since 1966.

Thom Curley and Joey Edmonds did a variety of sketches that included spoofs on family dentists, North Central Airlines, high school senior proms and laxative commercials. Edmonds, who was a registered nurse in Racine, Wisconsin, also sang.

There's a certain slant of light,
On winter afternoons,
That oppresses, like the weight
Of cathedral tunes.

Heavenly hurt it gives us;
We can find no scar,
But internal difference
Where the meanings are.

None may teach it anything,
'T is the seal, despair,--
An imperial affliction
Sent us of the air.

When it comes, the landscape listens,
Shadows hold their breath;
When it goes, 't is like the distance
On the look of death.

Competition Spurs Sculptors To Construct Snow Statues

Nowhere is the competitive spirit of Winter Carnival better exhibited than in the construction of snow statues. Organizations of all sizes work day and night for weeks only to find that they have weeks more work to do in the last few hours before the judges make their rounds on Thursday morning. Only then can the tired laborers relax and enjoy the pleasures of the short mid-winter vacation.

I DON'T KNOW, THE DELT SIGS, ER, I MEAN, THE STUDENT COUNCIL IS STILL TRYING TO DECIDE.

NEXT YEAR I'M SURE GONNA WORK ON THE SKIT.
